

Canvas of Steel

Canvas of Steel is a compelling journey into the power of transformation—of materials, of perceptions, and of human connection. Initiated by Banque BEMO, in collaboration with Kreative Call, and guided by the artist Mirna Mchantaf, this project brought together a group of gifted artists with autism to create something truly remarkable.

Starting with discarded gas tanks, objects once associated with utility and heaviness, these young artists turned them into vivid, emotionally rich sculptures. Through their imagination, sensitivity, and bold use of color and form, what was once overlooked has become a source of beauty, meaning, and hope.

Each sculpture is a window into a unique inner world—expressing joy, love, dreams, and sometimes even silent struggles. These works are not just visual creations; they are stories told without words, messages shared through shapes and colors. They reflect the honesty, depth, and creativity that often go unnoticed in people whose ways of seeing and feeling differ from the mainstream.

Canvas of Steel is not only an artistic exhibition—it is a statement. It shows us the importance of giving space to every voice, of believing in potential rather than focusing on limitations. It reminds us that when we choose inclusion, when we value what is different, we enrich our world.

This collection also invites us to reflect on sustainability—how even the most unlikely materials can be reborn, just as ideas, people, and societies can be reshaped through care and imagination.
